Everybody's got troubles, troubles, troubles—but it's just because they didn't take them to the Student Council. This versatile group of people have to be salesmen, journalists, organizers, and politicians as well as problem solvers. They are elected to office by the entire student body and always live up to their responsibilities. This year they sold fire-extinguishers, sponsored and organized Homecoming, and published a student directory.

The Gamma Tri-Hi-Y sets Christian ideals...

Miss McKinney and Mrs. Touchton give aid when it is needed.

To "create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christianity" is the purpose of the Gamma Tri-Hi-Y. To this end, they supplied magazines to hospital patients, and sponsored campaigns for honesty and good sportsmanship. Their most important money-making project was sponsoring buses to out-of-town football games.

The Senior Hi-Y maintains Christian fellowship . . .

When a group of outstanding boys dedicate themselves to Christian living, other people are inspired to live for Christ. The Senior Hi-Y is the center of interest for such boys. ## The Glee Club presents

Jerry plays as the Glee Club sings in chapel.

"Okay, shift your chewing gum and let's sing this thing!" If this phrase sounds as if the members of the Glee Club enjoy this activity, then it sounds exactly right. The rest of the student body enjoys the fruits of their labor, but the singing students get more fun out of the practice sessions. As far as they are concerned, the combination of good music and good humor found in Glee Club is a wonderful experience.

The keys to the future are held by the outstanding young men of today. That is why this group of boys, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and chosen because of outstanding ability and achievement, is called "The Key Club." Have you seen dizzy angels lately? I guess we never will see any more quite as dizzy as Lizzy Helms was in the play that the freshman half of the Dramatic Club presented. Since the Dramatic Club divided into two parts, a freshman group and an upper-classman group, we have looked forward to plays presented by both groups. We see great things in the future for some of these budding actors and actresses.

"Hey, is it going to blow up? Boy, I'm getting out of here if it does!" These are typical comments as budding scientists enjoy the programs planned for their meetings. Terrible poetry and terrible grammar maybe, but this project of the D. E. Club provides a lot of fun for everyone in school. Besides having fun, the D. E. Club accomplished many worthwhile things this year. One of their most outstanding achievements was succeeding in getting James Cody elected first state Vice-President. Bobby Meyer was elected to the office of Vice-President in Charge of public relations. James Cody was one of the four in the state to receive a free trip to the national D. E.
